

Passing on the baton

There were fond farewells to Louth Methodist choir's long serving conductor Alec Meanwell as he bowed out at a special musical evening recently. So many people wanted to wish him well the Methodist Church was packed for the concert. Alec began his musical career with the church at the Riverhead Methodist Chapel and some of his old friends from those days, who are still with the choir, are pictured here. From left to right are Florrie Brown, Roy Bullivant, Doris Meanwell, Maurice Mills, Alec, Mary Brackenbury and Molly Shucksmith.
